

State To Seek Area Flood Project Bids Next Week

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The Stroudsburg area moved closer to protection against disastrous flood damage yesterday with a decision by the State Dept. of Forest and Waters to request bids next week for construction of a multi-million dollar flood control project for the region.

The date for opening the bids will be set when the specific time for asking for bids is determined, the department said. Estimates of the program, prepared by the department in 1958, place the cost at $2,776,565. Construction costs of the project will be paid from state funds.

Local sponsors of the program are bearing the cost of rights-of-way for building the project and must maintain the flood control facilities after completion.

Controlling Points
According to department plans, flood waters will be controlled on Broadheads, McMichael and Sambo Creeks.

Channel dredging of Broadheads Creek will cover a distance of about 9,600 feet beginning about 3,000 feet north of the Stroudsburg borough line and extending to a point about 2,500 feet below the mouth of McMichael Creek.

Dredging
An estimated 6,500 feet of levees will be built in that distance on the left bank of Broadheads Creek and about 4,200 feet of levees will be constructed on the right bank of that stream.

Drain Surface Water
Included in the project will be construction of facilities for draining surface water through the levees to the waterways.

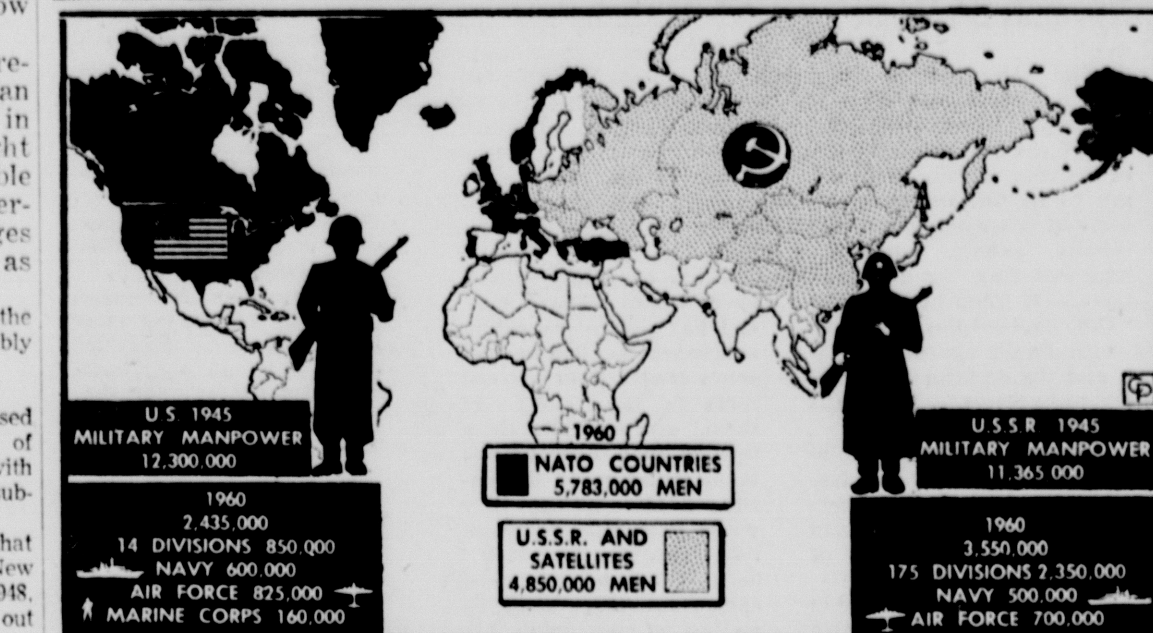

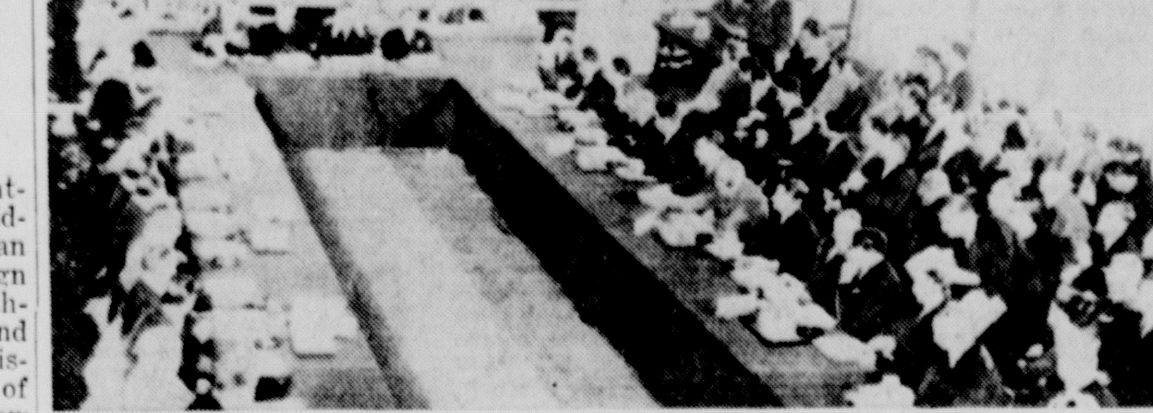

Reds Imprison U.S. Bishop

Herter Moves To Protest China Action

In Shanghai Friday sentenced Bishop James Edward Walsh, an American and the last high foreign prelate of the Roman Catholic Church in mainland China, to 20 years in prison. He was accused of conspiring to overthrow the Communist regime.

In quick reaction, Secretary of State Christian Herter issued orders in Washington Friday night for the strongest possible protest to Red China. Herter denounced the charges against Bishop Walsh as totally false.

Fear was expressed that the aging bishop could not possibly survive the prison sentence.

French Call For Census Of World's Arms

GENEVA (AP)—French delegate Jules Moch called Friday for a census of all the world's armed forces and conventional weapons as a prelude to general disarmament.

Such a project would involve the counting, under international control, of all military personnel from rear rank privates to generals and of weapons ranging from rifles to aircraft carriers.

Carefully, Moch sought in the 10-nation disarmament commission to determine whether the Soviet Union would accept, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin withheld comment.

Moch spoke on behalf of all five Western participants—the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada. He declared control measures, including the proposed "counting of noses," would not constitute espionage—something the U.S.S.R. always profess to fear.

The French disarmament expert said he would refrain from annoying Zorin with pointed questions, but hoped to determine whether the Western and Soviet disarmament plans contained elements of agreement on control and inspection.

Investigation Continues In Plane Crash

TELL CITY, Ind. (AP)—An Air Force pilot's report disclosed Friday that a Northwest Airlines plane might have hit violently turbulent air before exploding and crashing with a loss of 63 lives.

But investigators continued checking the possibility that a planted bomb could have destroyed the big turboprop Thursday.

Experts said they were leaving nothing out in a disheartening search for clues to the third unsolved airliner crash within four months.

Specialist teams searched wreckage-littered hills near the Ohio River for fragments of metal and information that might tell why the Lockheed Electra blew apart.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said they had found no specific indication of a bomb aboard the Miami-bound $2,400,000 turboprop—but were not ruling out the possibility.

Severe Turbulence
Meanwhile, the air traffic control center in Indianapolis said an Air Force jet pilot reported severe turbulence over Louisville, Ky., about 20 minutes after the Northwest crash. The plane went down about 60 miles west of Louisville. John Wubbolding of the control center staff said it was possible the turbulence extended over the Tell City area.

"It's obvious the plane came apart in the air," said Ed Slattery, CAB information officer. "We will go through all the possibilities, including a bomb."

A public CAB hearing starts Tuesday into the unexplained crash of a National Airlines plane which killed 34 persons near Bolivia, N.C., Jan. 6. The CAB has said a bomb caused that crash.

The crash of another National plane in the Gulf of Mexico, which killed 42 persons Nov. 16 also is unsolved.

It was the third crash of a Lockheed Electra in 13 months.

An Electra blew apart in the air near Buffalo, Tex., Sept. 29, killing 34. But a CAB spokesman said the cause "wasn't necessarily the same" as Thursday's crash.

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) asked the CAB and the Federal Aviation Agency to keep his Senate Aviation subcommittee advised of developments in the investigation. The subcommittee has been investigating the surge in fatal air crashes during the past year.

Appeals To Public
Monroney appealed to the public to "report, without moving, any debris or parts of wreckage discovered from this tragic crash." It's vital for investigators to recover all possible parts of the plane, he added.

A plane structure team of CAB specialists, aviation industry representatives and technicians started a search of the hilly farms on which the flaming plane fragments rained.

The plane's fire-blackened right wing and two engines were found five miles north of a huge crater where the main mass of wreckage lay 25 feet deep. The tail assembly was found a mile and a half east.

The plane was headed southeast from Chicago to Miami with 57 passengers and a crew of six. The dead included 3 men, 21 women and 9 children.

Some of the 74 state policemen called in gathered parts of bodies from the crash area.

Southland Sitdowns

By The Associated Press
NEGRO sitdown demonstrations at lunch counters spread to West Virginia Friday while a variety store at Suffolk, Va., opened its counters on a service-to-all, stand-up basis.

Elsewhere in the racially troubled South courts continued to crack down on students arrested in various kinds of demonstrations.

Authorities at white Florida State University in Tallahassee enjoined students from participating in demonstrations.

Walter Charges President After Political Dividends

REP. FRANCIS E. WALTER (D-Pa.) charged that President Eisenhower is seeking "political dividends" in his move to increase immigration quotas.

The Easton representative, who co-authored the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, charged in a speech on the House floor that the President's proposal is "catering to groups representing special interests."

The text of his remarks: "Mr. Speaker, if anybody has any doubt as to when elections are going to take place, the President's immigration message certainly makes it clear that it's this year! We had an identical message from the President four years ago, and we are certainly going to have one like it four years hence. It is all a part of seeking political dividends by catering to groups representing special interests."

"If we were to consider the President's proposal seriously, we would find that its enactment would raise the present annual average of immigrants entering this country from 260,000 to 500,000. Simple arithmetic indicates that the doubling of the regular immigration quota coupled with the retention of immigration not subject to quota limitations (natives of the Western Hemisphere and all spouses and children of United States citizens plus special classes such as clergymen and their immediate families, etc.) will have precisely that effect."

Quota 154,000
"Our present annual immigration quota is 154,000, but the actual number of immigrants who entered this country reached 2,499,268 in the last ten years, instead of the theoretical figure of 1,540,000."

"One problem of whether the United States is capable of absorbing economically and assimilating socially twice the number of immigrants which we presently admit annually is a matter to be tackled by qualified economists and sociologists, rather than to be tossed about by the Republic's political advisers of the President. Economists and not politicians ascertain whether there are sufficient jobs, school rooms, hospital beds and houses for the accommodation of the increased number of immigrants as proposed by the President. According to the Bureau of the Census, a new citizen of the United States is born every 7 1/2 seconds; a person dies in the United States every 20 seconds; and an immigrant enters this country every 90 seconds. The effect of these three officially established facts is the net increase of our population by 2,890,800 annually, all of whom must be absorbed by the United States."

U. S. Leader
"I wish to add one more thought. The sound and time-tested basic tenets of our immigration policy and the laws implementing it, have permitted this country to accept, whenever the international situation called for it, a sizable number of homeless refugees and victims of political persecution. Since the end of World War II, pursuant to this policy, the United States has led the whole world in admitting well over one million displaced persons and refugees. At the present time, my Subcommittee is actively considering legislation under which an additional number of people in need of resettlement opportunities would be offered new homes and a new start in life in the United States."

"The President's proposal, providing for a permanent automatic increase of the size of our annual immigration intake, will, of course, preclude the passage of legislation needed in emergent situations."

"We must not sacrifice the welfare of the nation in general to the dictates of election year politics, there is too much at stake."

Good Morning!
Experience is a wonderful thing. It enables you to recognize a mistake when you make it again.

Rights Plan Weathers Two Storms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration's civil rights program weathered storms in both the Senate and House Friday.

The House, by a teller vote of 137-134, rejected a Southern-backed drive to exempt state and local elections from the proposal for court-appointed voting referees. Members are not recorded by name on a teller vote.

In the Senate, a move to substitute presidentially appointed registrars for the referee plan was turned back on a 53-24 roll-call vote.

The Senate move was sparked by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), who contended the plan for court referees to insure the right of Negroes to register and vote without discrimination would prove "almost completely ineffective."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), quarterbacking the administration program, torpedoed the Douglas amendment with a successful motion to table and thus kill it.

Dirksen, the Republican floor leader, said he was willing to give the president great powers but added that there has "got to be some review of his authority."

He said the Douglas proposal would displace state machinery on a "bare finding by the president" and would provide no opportunity for a state official to seek a court review.

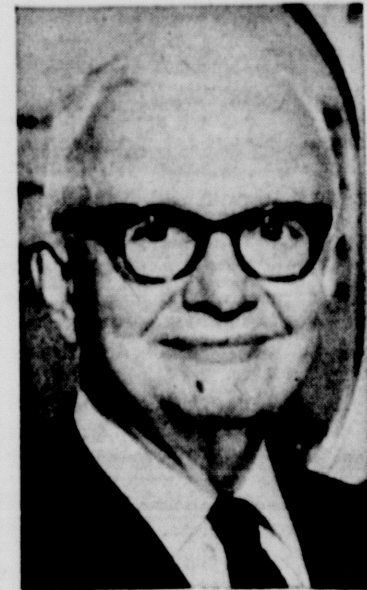

Under the administration plan which Dirksen sponsored, voting referees could be appointed only after a U.S. District Court judge found that a pattern or practice of discrimination prevailed in the area.

Federal Registrars
Douglas' amendment was based on a recommendation by the Civil Rights Commission of last September calling for appointment by the president of federal registrars. However, where the commission plan would have applied only to federal elections, Douglas broadened the proposal to include state and local elections as well.

The House, after refusing to limit its referee plan to federal elections, recessed until Monday when a vote on the referee proposal itself may be reached.

The proposal to restrict the voting referees' jurisdiction to federal elections was denounced as sheer sanctimony by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers.

DeGaulle Nixes Farm Crisis Meet

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle touched off a parliamentary storm Friday by rejecting the demand of a majority of the National Assembly for a special session on France's farm crisis.

Angry deputies accused De Gaulle of violating the Fifth Republic's constitution. Leftists threatened censure action against his hand-picked government, headed by Premier Michel Debre, in the regular session opening April 26.

Overrules Majority
A total of 287 deputies—10 more than half of the Assembly's membership—had signed a petition calling for a special session to debate the government's agricultural price-fixing policy, which farmers charge is forcing them toward bankruptcy.

The constitution provides that the assembly may be convoked by the executive or by a vote of more than half the assembly members. However, in either case the decree must have the president's signature.

De Gaulle judged a special session now inopportune because it would take place under the pressure of private interests—the farmers' lobby. Besides, he pointed out, the proposed agenda, involving increased aid for the farmers, falls under an article of the constitution which forbids the legislature to initiate expenses.

Modern Post Office For Mountainhome

SEN. HUGH SCOTT said yesterday he has been advised by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield that a modern Post Office has been authorized for Mountainhome. The Post Office Department will ask for competitive bids to rent a modern facility.

The facility will be rented under the Department's Commercial Leasing Program. Specifications call for a facility containing approximately 900 sq. ft. of floor space with an adequate area for parking and truck maneuvering.

Police Sure Of Site Of Murders

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Photographs of two smiling women, taken possibly minutes before their brutal slaying, have narrowed the search for clues to the killers of three suburban socialites.

Authorities obtained the pictures from film in a blood-stained camera owned by one of the victims. It was found at the mouth of a shallow cave in Starved Rock State Park in which the bodies of the women were found Wednesday. They had been missing since Monday.

State's Atty. Harland Warren of La Salle County said the photographs definitely ruled out the possibility that the women had been slain elsewhere and their bodies carried to picturesque La Salle Canyon in the 1,475 acre year-round recreation area.

Pin-Pointed Area
Warren said the photographs pin-pointed the immediate area outside the cave as the place where the women were set upon and slain and their bodies dragged into the cave and partially stripped.

As a result, authorities concentrated the search for additional clues to the snow-covered area in St. Louis Canyon.

The three victims, wives of Chicago business executives, lived in Riverside, a Chicago suburb.

They were Frances Murphy, 47, whose husband, Robert, is vice president and general counsel for Borg-Warner Corp.; Lillian Oetting, 50, wife of George, an Illinois Bell Telephone Co. executive; and Mildred Lindquist, 50, wife of Robert, a vice president of the Harris Trust & Savings Bank.

They disappeared Monday, after checking into the park lodge for a brief holiday from housekeeping. Their bodies were found Wednesday by a search party after the women's husbands became alarmed when they were unable to contact their wives by telephone at the lodge.

U.S. Envoy To Return To Cuban Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department Friday announced that Ambassador Philip Bonsal will return to his post in Havana at an early date — probably next week.

This announcement was made after the department rejected as absurd and groundless a Cuban suggestion that the United States instigated the defection of Cuba's top military official in Washington, Lt. Cmdr. Miguel Pons.

Despite the Cuban accusation, from Raul Castro's Armed Forces Ministry, U.S. officials reported there is some brightening of prospects for an improvement in relations with the government of Fidel Castro.

An announcement said assurances have been received from Cuba that the Castro government "has no charges" against Bonsal and added:

"In view of these assurances and of the importance which our government, for its part, attaches to making every possible constructive contribution to the conduct of our relations with Cuban government, Ambassador Bonsal is being instructed to return to Havana at an early date."

Here Since Jan. 23
Bonsal returned to Washington Jan. 23, two days after Castro delivered an attack on the United States.

Castro in a televised speech accused the United States of waging a campaign of hostility against his government and claimed the U.S. and Spanish ambassadors were aiding counter revolutionists in Cuba.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) told the Senate that to send Bonsal back now would be to surrender to "this little dictator Fidel Castro" and deal a cruel blow to Cubans opposing Castro's government.

The Cuban Armed Forces Ministry said Thursday's resignation of Pons, who charged the Castro regime is a Communist front bent on destroying Cuba, was inspired by the promoters of a munitions ship explosion in Havana March 4.

When we ask, let us ask in faith, believing God will forgive us our sins. If we thus seek, we shall find. Let us forgive the trespasses of others that He may bless our lives.

Bible Reading Law Attacked

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The new state law permitting Bible reading in public schools was attacked Friday as being just as unconstitutional as the old one.

The attack was made before a special court of three federal judges by Henry W. Sawyer III, a lawyer representing Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Schemp of suburban Roslyn.

The Schempes, Unitarians, brought suit against the old law, which required daily Bible reading in public schools. They were upheld by the same court which heard the renewed arguments Friday.

Will Not Intercede

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Amish fathers, freed from jail by an anonymous benefactor, learned Friday that the American Civil Liberties Union will not intercede for them in their battle against compulsory school attendance for their children.

Prayer: Dear Lord, we ask Thy forgiveness for sins of omission, as well as forgiveness for our misdoings. Help us to uproot any fault in ourselves that may hinder another person from seeking Thy kingdom. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day — "If ye forgive men their trespass, your heavenly Father will also forgive you."

The Golden Time

When Mom and I got married, golden weddings seemed just as remote to us as they probably do to you. Matter of fact, folks celebrating them seemed like museum pieces!

Now here we are, posing for our fiftieth anniversary picture! Funny part of it is that we don't feel a bit like "old folks!"

Still, a couple can't be married for half a century without putting in a lot of living. Mom and I have. There were times when we were so happy we thought we'd burst . . . other times when it didn't seem as if we could find the strength to keep going another minute.

Through it all, we've had our church. It's hard to put into words how important that's been. Maybe you'll get an idea when I tell you this. When Mom asked me what I'd like to do to celebrate our anniversary, I said, "First of all, let's go to Church. I want to say a little prayer of thanks."

Mom smiled at me. "So do I," she told me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our Defense Arsenal

While space scientists are jubilant that the Pioneer V satellite is heading flawlessly into an orbit around the sun, having passed the million-mile mark early yesterday, the military implications of the peacetime research effort undoubtedly have not been lost on the Kremlin.

Pioneer V was boosted unerringly into space by the same rocket engine which propels the Thor intermediate range ballistic missile. That IRBM missile is not in blueprints, but actually on the front line of our defense against Soviet aggression.

The last Thor needed to complete the arming of three missile squadrons was delivered in England just recently, for the defense of Great Britain and the free world.

These United Kingdom-based, nuclear-armed missiles are capable of arcing more than 1,500 miles into the heartland of the Soviet Union. The solar probe, therefore, demonstrates a military as well as a scientific capability.

The glamour of intercontinental ballistic missiles has tended to overshadow the deterrent effect of the shorter-range IRBMs which we have "on active duty" in England, ready for instant retaliation. Also generally overlooked are the Snark guided missiles deployed in Europe and ready for immediate launching.

Both the Thor and the Snark have been largely ignored by those who have sounded public alarm about a "missile gap" between Soviet and American IRBMs.

But Thors and Snarks, not to mention the Strategic Air Command with its air-launched missiles, are part of our defense arsenal, not of tomorrow, but of today. It is this over-all "defense posture" which must continue to guide the decisions of President Eisenhower in strengthening national defenses.

Talketh On, And On, And On!

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Castro's Sugar

In a world where power has replaced justice and where war and preparation for war are constant, it is not surprising that the American attitude toward Castro is regarded as weakness, as cowardice, as accepting insults because the courage is lacking to reject them.

But there is more to it than that. Some American companies have operated in both the United States and Cuba. The principal companies with interests in Cuba are the Cuban American Sugar Refining Co., American Fruit Co., and American Sugar Refining Co.

It is to be noted that a part of the two cents a pound subsidy which Cuba's sugar receives from the United States goes to American companies growing and manufacturing Cuban sugar. Cuba has a quota which currently amounts to 375,000 tons.

Whatever goes to the Castro government from this subsidy, is used to purchase arms for Castro's army, to support revolutionary movements in Latin America, and perhaps eventually to demonstrate an ability to strike at some American spot at a time when it may be inconvenient for the United States to engage in a mopping-up of Cuba.

The weakness of American policy is based on three theories:

1. The United States is morally a better nation than Soviet Russia and therefore will not treat Cuba as Soviet Russia treated Hungary;
2. Whatever action is taken against Castro must be taken by the Organization of American States (O. A. S.) and not by the United States alone;
3. The United States does not wish to irritate Soviet Russia prior to the Summit Conference and therefore it is sound to let Russia or Russian satellites get away with crimes during the present tiki-tiki period.

Unfortunately the formulation of this policy has been left to weak hands. Obviously it makes no sense and will ultimately lose for us leadership in the Americas as it has lost leadership for us in Asia. Nobody wants to follow a weak leader. John Foster Dulles pulled this country over many hurdles by moving from strength.

He prevented the Russians from choosing the time and place for strained relations. The Suez Canal incident must be judged from that standpoint. The present policy of the United States, which some attribute to the thinking of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, is an idealistic concept of international relations based on the assumption that if nothing is done, Fidel Castro will come to his senses. It reminds one of the ideas of Col. Raymond Robins, who believed that if the Communists were not interfered with they would ultimately come to their senses.

By 1960, we know, for sure, that Soviet Russia has become the objective enemy of the United States with industrial and military strength beyond our imagination in 1917.

The same kind of thinking is going into our attitude toward Castro and we shall probably not wake up to our necessities until this booby has thrown a bomb on the Panama Canal or on Miami just to show us that he can spit on us. For once and for all, the United States must show that it does not need to take guff from anybody.

The Eisenhower policy of weakness, after he had himself for so many years pursued a policy of strength, is frightening because so much of what is left of freedom in the world depends upon the United States for leadership against Soviet Russia's imperialism. Upon whom are the free and hopeful people to depend if the United States continues its policy of weakness?

Many used to criticize Dean Acheson, when he was Secretary of State, for pursuing a policy of weakness, but, in retrospect, Dean Acheson was a giant of strength compared to what we have now.

He, at any rate, attempted to disentangle the United States from the errors of Tehran and Yalta, but now we are risking our national dignity and prestige over a trivial island in the Caribbean. Not only that but we continue to subsidize Castro's government!

What is such a policy expected to accomplish? Politically it is meaningless because Castro, knows what Khrushchev knows, namely, that Eisenhower will only be President until next January; that beginning in June, all the political personalities in the United States will be so completely absorbed with the political campaign, that no external question will be considered seriously. It is a good time to make trouble.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

When it came to cussing, farmer Obediah took the cake. People from all over came to marvel at his ability to cuss for 15 minutes at a stretch without so much as taking time out to bite off a chaw of terbacky.

One stormy afternoon word went around that the brand new bakery barn had collapsed burying Obediah's new 1960 station wagon. Everybody rushed over to hear what promised to be a world's record in continuous profanity. The extent of the misfortune proved too much for him however. He shook his head and announced, "You'll have to excuse me, folks. I just cannot cuss enough to do justice to the occasion."

Jack Benny, under the weather briefly at a Miami Beach hotel, summoned a local medic. "That stuff about my being 39 is just to make my TV audience laugh," confided Benny. "I'm really 49."

"Funny," commented the doctor. "Your corpuscles are 64."

Benny noted that the servants at the hotel are particularly polite. "It's no wonder, though," added Jack.

There's a gal in Washington who is as talented as she is beautiful. Her first novel is a best seller and has been sold to Hollywood. Her proud publisher took her on a round of New York night clubs recently, and flushed with wines and joie de vivre, sought to embrace his lovely author in the taxi going home.

"Sir," she said sharply, "I welcome your advances, but I reject your proposals."

Prayer by a cautious politician: "Oh heaven, let my words today be tender and sweet, for tomorrow I may have to eat them."

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

With the coming of another population change via the 1960 census a glimpse over statistics notes the switch of the masses in the past in Pennsylvania.

For example, in Monroe County in 1950 the population read 33,773, a jump over the 1940 figure of 29,802. However, in neighboring Lackawanna in '50 the population was 257,396—a far cry from the 301,243 in the same county in 1940.

The shift took place all over in the state. But most of the drops were in counties where mining and mills were prevalent.

Out in the western part of the Keystone State, Homestead boasted a 20,141 total in 1930 but today has less than half of that number—10,046.

Pennsylvania on the whole has slipped from second to third place in population among states, relinquishing a position it has held since the first nationwide census of population was taken in 1790.

Perhaps it would be wise to point out that while Pennsylvania "dropped" to third in population it is 32nd in land area. The state has a land area of 45,045 square miles and in 1950 there was an average of 233.1 inhabitants per square mile as compared to 219.8 in '40.

Locally the trend goes upward. In East Stroudsburg in '50 the number of folks tabulated hit 7,274, while the '40 census was 6,404, an increase of 870 in 10 years. Stroudsburg totalled 6,361 in 1950 and 6,186 in '40.

With new highways pointing all of their links toward the Poconos, especially from the metropolitan areas of New York and Philadelphia it will be a safe wager that the future holds a potentially big rise in population in the Stroudsburgs and surrounding areas.

Maybe the 1960 census won't reveal such a hike, but for sure 1970 and 1980 will.

Interpreting The News

Britain Losing Fight On West Berlin

By R. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Great Britain is losing in her effort to carry the Western Allies into the summit conference with open minds on changes in West Berlin which might produce a new agreement with the Soviet Union.

President Eisenhower has reiterated the policy of the United States to protect the voice of West Berlin in its own future.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer immediately seized upon the President's statement to suggest a plebiscite before the conference.

That would give the West

Berliners the key to the summit insofar as the dispute over the city is concerned, as everybody agrees they would vote against changes in the occupation status.

Whether an actual balloting occurs or not, the effect is much the same. The mind of West Berlin is known, and the United States is thereby committed to no major concessions.

It might be possible to put the question to West Berliners in such fashion as to get their views on record as a propaganda matter, strengthening the Allied hand and still leave some room for negotiation. But such negotiations would be very limited.

Britain had hoped that the conference could start from the point where the foreign ministers left off in Geneva. The Allies had then offered to make some concessions about troop reductions and the international use of West Berlin as an anti-Communist propaganda center.

In the British mind, there would be a possibility of a few more concessions which would not actually scuttle West Berlin's future while permitting the Soviet Union to back away from a dangerous situation.

Butler Pulls Fast One

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler is pulling another fast one on congressional and other party leaders with whom he has long been feuding.

The turbulent Indianan secretly invited the 34 Democratic governors to an April 28-29 conference in Washington. He has also summoned for the same two days the militant Democratic Advisory Committee, which he set up, over the disapproval of top congressional leaders, to issue forceful policy pronouncements.

According to Butler's letter to the governors, the purpose of their unusual meeting is to discuss "giving them a bigger voice in the Los Angeles convention."

Both the state executives and congressional leaders are particularly mystified by this avowed intent as all of the former will be delegates to the nominating convention, and some will be there in the added role of "favorite son" candidates.

Party chiefs strongly suspect Butler has a new jolting surprise up his sleeve.

It is now definitely known he will appoint the long-promised convention arrangements committee later this month. Its function is to select the key officials of the convention — permanent chairman, keynoter, and head of the platform and other major committees.

The arrangements group is certain to be Butler-controlled, and critical party leaders are convinced will merely rubber stamp Butler's choices. Two reasons for this backstage belief are:

(1) Strenuous efforts being made by Butler to persuade several reluctant congressional leaders and governors to accept top convention jobs.

(2) He is the anonymous "high-placed Democratic organization source" behind those widely printed news stories several days ago that

"Senator Kennedy will win the 1960 Democratic nomination if he achieves a decisive victory in the Wisconsin primary."

Butler "planted" this story with a hand-picked group of reporters. At this unannounced "press conference," he also indicated he expects to be importantly active in the Fall election battle.

Last week, Butler was host at another unpublicized affair—a stag party for the "rookie" Democratic members of the House. Remarkable one of the 26 who showed up. "This so-called get-acquainted party is just one year late. Maybe Butler doesn't know it, but we have been here since January 1959."

Politicians — For an avowedly non-active presidential candidate, Adlai Stevenson is slated to do some significant speech-making after he returns from South America. On April 11, a week after Wisconsin's widely-watched primary, he will address the University of Virginia on "The Jeffersonian Heritage."

Then on April 22, he will be the principal speaker at the banquet of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; last year Vice President Nixon occupied this influential forum. And on May 13, Stevenson will talk at the Northwestern University Law School. Further, other speeches are being arranged between these dates.

Another experienced campaigner has joined the growing staff of Senator Stuart Symington. The latest addition is Miss May Oliver, long-time assistant of Senator Estes Kefauver, who has been named assistant finance director of the Symington headquarters.

That April 30 $100-a-plate dinner of the Democratic congressional campaign committee will be the biggest of its kind ever held in Washington. More than 6,000 tickets will be sold. That's the confident claim of Rep. Michael Kirwan, O. chairman of the House Campaign Committee, which is in charge of this big affair to raise a campaign chest.

A poll by Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, Wis., of his second district produced the following results: Stevenson 579; Humphrey 469; Kennedy 434; Symington 75; Johnson 72; Morse 16. Kastenmeier sent out 30,000 ballots, of which a little more than 3,000 were returned.

Michigan supporters of Senator Kennedy are claiming that if he "sweeps" Wisconsin, Gov. Mennen Williams, State Chairman Neil Staebler and other Michigan leaders will declare for Kennedy.

Nixon's plans — As far as Vice President Nixon is concerned, there will be no mudslinging in the presidential battle. Issues and policies will be the sole basis of his campaigning. He disclosed this in a letter to a publisher, as follows: "I could not agree more with you that the issues in 1960 are too important to allow the campaign to degenerate into a name-calling contest. That is why I intend to continue to ignore personal attacks which may be made on me."

When Federal Communications Commissioner Frederick Wayne Ford was made head of that investigation-scarred agency, a friend congratulated him with the quip, "You are now captain of a ship that is sunk in 50 feet of water."

Ford's hobby is restoring antiques. He has had a lot of experience doing that as a long-time resident of historic Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from the Capital.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Sticker Is Money Saver

Something the state highway officials neglected to mention a year ago, when stickers were selected instead of new metal tags for automobile licenses, is now being proudly mentioned as it should be.

Using the stickers saves the state nearly $1 million annually and it will continue for the next four years. The first year of the stickers, at first complained about, showed a nice saving.

Now motorists, 4,200,000 of them, are receiving their 1960 passenger car registration applications and the job isn't nearly as strenuous as when metal plates were sent out.

Last year the savings amounted to $400,000 by not purchasing new metal plates. Uncle Sam lost $160,000 in postage which the state saved and some $250,000 was lost to the state print shop because no bulletins were needed to list the new license numbers for all motorists.

Oddly enough, few complaints have been received from auto owners regarding the stickers. They evidently fill the bill and the state is saving money, so there's no complaining.

Reports From Congress

Nixon Is Internationalist

(First of three articles)
By Congressional Quarterly
Washington — By his own description, Vice President Richard M. Nixon is an "internationalist" in foreign affairs and a "conservative" on domestic policy.

His record on these matters has been laid open in speeches and votes during the 14 years since he first ran for U. S. Representative in the 12th District of California in 1946. His stands and votes on the issues have been catalogued and organized in a special report by Congressional Quarterly.

This article reviews Nixon's position on foreign affairs. Tomorrow, his views on domestic issues will be analyzed.

Whether or not there is an "old" and a "new" Nixon, both of them, with some exceptions, are distinctly internationalist. In his first year in the House, 1947, he was a strong supporter of foreign aid. Since then, he has traveled to five continents and about 60 countries and more than ever is urging active American participation in world developments and the problems of other nations.

On Marshall Plan Committee — As a freshman Congressman, Nixon went to Europe in the fall of 1947 with the Herter Committee, headed by Rep. Christian A. Herter (R. Mass.), now Secretary of State, to make an on-the-spot study of the requirements and resources of countries receiving help under the foreign aid program in connection with the newly proposed Marshall Plan.

It was this direct encounter with Europe's problems that convinced Nixon of the value of U. S. economic aid to free world. In 1947, 1948 and 1949, he voted in favor of military and economic aid both to European and Asian nations. He favored a substitute proposal to provide less money for arms to NATO nations in 1949 but supported the final mutual security authorization that year.

In January of 1950, he opposed a $60 million authorization for Korean Aid, but a month later approved of the same proposal when the Korean situation worsened. The Korean conflict began June 25, 1950.

In the Senate in 1951, Nixon joined in approval of a resolution saying that no U. S. ground troops beyond the planned four divisions should be sent to Europe without Congressional approval. He also opposed the Truman Administration on the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and introduced a resolution asking that MacArthur be restored to his post.

Trade Policy — Nixon has favored a liberal trade policy as Vice President and asked in 1957 that the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act be extended "at least five years," but in the House in 1949 he had voted to kill the Trade Agreements Act of 1949.

Nixon was one of the 57 sponsors of the original Bricker Amendment in 1952, providing that treaties should not take precedence over the Constitution or become internal law without additional legislation by Congress. Later, as Vice President, however, he opposed such an amendment.

Another turnaround in his position concerned nuclear tests. When Democratic Presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson proposed cessation of tests in 1956, Nixon said "Mr. Stevenson's brand of peace seems to amount to achieving peace through weakness. But the Eisenhower Administration believes in keeping peace by staying powerful."

Since then, the Administration has ceased tests. Nixon said last November that anyone urging a resumption of nuclear weapons tests "at this point" was ignorant of the facts. "Having all the facts, I can say the President reached the right decision."

Here are some characteristic statements made by Nixon on foreign policy subjects:

"Let us talk less about our world leadership and more about our partnership with other free nations." June 25, 1957.

On Economic Aid — "The billion dollars we are spending for economic assistance to these uncommitted areas . . . is an investment in our own freedom and independence. It is the premium we pay to insure our survival as a free people." June 9, 1957.

Trade — America's policy should be "more trade, not less." Feb. 19, 1960.

Russia — "We can make no greater mistake than to underestimate the ability of those who guide the destiny of the Soviet empire today . . . We are not going to change Communist policy with a smile or a handshake. They are hard-headed realists motivated by their own self-interest. They will respect us only if we stand firmly by our principles and our ideals." Jan. 27, 1959.

Exchange of Persons — "May I emphasize . . . the overwhelming importance of expanding our program for exchange of persons." June 7, 1956.

United Nations — "It is far from being a perfect instrument in settling international disputes. But in providing a forum for discussion of differences and for mobilizing world opinion against the use of force as an instrument of national policy, it renders a significant service to the cause of peace." Sept. 14, 1959.

Captive Nations — "To those who scoffed at (Dulles') advocacy of peaceful liberation for the captive peoples, he was stating the only position that a self-respecting free people could take." June 19, 1959.

World Court — "We must have something other than the balance of terror or the rule of terror; the rule of law. The repeal of the Connally Amendment (under which the U. S. reserves the right to decide what cases involving it will go before the World Court) is a small step, but an important step in that direction . . ." Jan. 15, 1960.

Red China — "I can think of nothing which would be more detrimental to the cause of freedom and peace . . . than to recognize Red China and admit it to the United Nations at this time . . ." Feb. 6, 1960.

Next — Nixon on the domestic front.

"Aunt Lizzie" was born deaf and dumb 75 years ago on Jan. 27 on the property where she now lives. However she had her eyesight until about 30 years ago.

Schooled In Scranton
She attended a school in Scranton for the deaf and dumb, for seven years. It was here that she was taught to read, write and communicate with other people.

During our interview all questions were asked through her brother. He would take her hand and touch parts of her face, ear and head and put her hands through different motions, each having its own meaning. She would then answer him and he would relay the answer.

The first question asked was, "How old are you?" Her brother took her hand and made a motion and then started to count on her fingers. She held out her hand and made the figure 75. Another question was "Does the teakettle need filling?" She rose, after being shown in sign language, walked to the stove a short distance away, took hold of the handle and lifted the lid and inserted her finger to feel the water.

She then crossed the room and came back with a pint dipper, inserted her finger and poured in the water. This she did twice until there was enough water in the teakettle.

At this point one of her nephews told the story about the night the house burned. The entire section of the house containing the kitchen burned through to the roof. Relatives came to help rebuild that section and the wives were there, too, cooking food for their hungry men.

"Finish The Job"

After the job was completed, a large meal was served. Following the meal and the washing of dishes, "Aunt Lizzie" went to the sink and felt it with her hand. Not satisfied with the job done to the sink, she gave her nephews' wife a cloth and a box of cleanser telling her, in her own way, "the sink is still dirty, go back and finish the job."

While this story was being told, she got up and went over to the stove, inserting the lid lifter and placing her hand near the opening. She then turned and walked to the corner wood-box, placing three sticks in her arm, returned to the stove and placed the wood in the fire, replacing the lid and returning to her chair.

At this point she was asked if the winter has been annoying to her. She noted this has been the coldest winter for her during her life.

When her picture was taken, following the flash made by the camera light, she asked her brother if she could "see" the camera. The photographer placed the camera on the table and she walked over and ran her hands over it.

When she came to the flash attachment, her brother took her hand in his and ran his fingers, rapidly through hers. He said "now she is satisfied she knows where the flash of light came from."

Miss Sebring rejects pity for herself and does not ask for help in her daily chores. After watching her, it is very easy to see that her early schooling was a lesson well taught.

TENDING THE FIRE — Miss Elizabeth B. Sebring, Tannersville, who is deaf, dumb and blind tends her own fire, along with other household chores. And at the age of 75 too. (Staff Photo By MacLeod)

Tentative 4-Event Card Planned By Racing, Inc.

A TENTATIVE schedule of four races, climaxed by the Pocono Mountains Grand Prix of Endurance, was released yesterday by Racing, Inc.

The company plans to construct a race track along Route 940 between Blakeslee and Pocono Lake. It may also be used for harness racing if Monroe County voters approve such racing at the April 26 primary election.

The tentative schedule calls for a Laurel Trophy Race with eight sprint races, Independence Day Race and eight sprint races, Pocono Summer Race and eight sprint races, according to David Montgomery Jr., president.

The grand prix would involve six hours of road racing, starting at 1 p.m. No dates have been set for any of the races.

Plans call for the road course here to be at least five miles in length. There are at the present time only two sports car road courses in existence of five miles or more in length. They are at Riverside, Calif., and Sebring, Fla.

Racing, Inc., points out that there are 25,000 hotel rooms located within a few miles of the proposed site of the course, providing ample room for both spectators and drivers.

Within 100 Miles
The track will be within 100 miles of such population centers as New York City, Philadelphia, Binghamton, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Allentown and Bethlehem and within 200 miles of Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Hartford, Ithaca, Atlantic City, Baltimore and Washington.

The group estimates that crowds of up to 50,000 persons will attend events here.

To Cooperate
The organization plans to cooperate with local hotels and resorts by scheduling races during periods of slack business.

Racing, Inc., recently obtained an option for purchase of the land on which it is planned to build the course.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

And just like that the starch went out of everybody and a limp and relaxed state of spring fever set in. And just in time. Everybody was getting as mangy and snarly as a caged lion.

Not that any such symptoms were apparent at the St. Patrick's Day dance from all reports. There was one woman who was so much in the spirit of the thing that she dyed her white streak green. I hope it will wash out or people will think she's given her hair the same treatment they give those itchy-looking Irish heads with real grass seed sown on top.

Might not be a bad idea to sow grass seeds on some of these clusters of men on the street corners yesterday. They lingered talking long enough for it to sprout, I'm sure.

Well, Spring rings in today and with it the Spring club activities. Spring bazaar, Book Fairs, awards for this and that to high school seniors, election of officers for the coming year, and inevitably Spring banquets.

Somehow each year the events sort of telescope themselves. The monthly meetings seem to roll around once a week and it seems only month before last that we were having opening Fall meetings.

I suppose we should be grateful that we're so busy and interested that time never lags—but I have a feeling it's a plot against me personally to roll against the speedometer of birthdays so fast when I'm just standing still.

Fibers To Be Identified Under New Law

A new Fiber Identification Act went into effect March 3, reports Miss Margaret MacLaren, extension home economist, Monroe County. It is designed to help homemakers buy fabrics and ready-to-wear intelligently.

The new act requires that each textile fiber product, such as clothing, be labeled with the generic (family) names and percentages by weight of the fibers in the product.

Seventeen generic (family) groups will be used under the new law. One of these is acrylic, and it includes fibers bearing the trade names of Orlon, Acrilan, Creslan, and Zefran.

Characteristics of the acrylic group are light, warm, resilient fibers; good wrinkle resistance and crease recovery; and resistance to damage from sunlight, moisture, and moths. Uses of the fibers include curtains, coating and dress fabrics, sweaters, fur-like pile fabrics, blankets, and rugs.

Fabrics containing acrylic fibers are washable in moderately warm water with a mild soap or synthetic detergent. They need thorough rinsing to prevent yellowing. If fabrics need pressing, a low temperature, such as for silk, is recommended. Homemakers are advised to read the hang tag for specific care directions for the fabric.

The Wyckoff Shopper

The Friendly Store

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

Pat Osborn was bubbling over with excitement the other morning when she was a guest on our Wyckoff Shopper radio program . . . but she never mentioned, until we were away from the mike enroute up Sixth street, that just the evening before she had won the local level of a nation-wide sewing contest sponsored by the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Pat is a trained nurse, a very efficient homemaker and mother, yet finds time to devote to clinics, civic organizations and such, with time left over for sewing! How she manages all this, I'll never know . . . but my hat is off to her. The prize at the local level is recognition only. If she wins in the district contest today at the Hotel Sterling, Wilkes-Barre, she will receive a year's subscription to Vogue, co-sponsor of the contest. The state award is 100.00 in cash . . . the national award a three week all-expense-paid tour for two of the fashion centers of Europe. Pat modestly says she can't even think of anything quite so wonderful, but after seeing her stunning ensemble as pictured in the Daily Record, I feel she certainly must have a far better than average chance. Certainly I HOPE she wins . . . and wish her all possible luck.

*Pat's 2 piece suit made from a Vogue pattern, consists of a cap-sleeved sheath dress with hip length, shawl-collared jacket, sleeved 3/4 length, and fashioned of blue-gray and white houndstooth wool, purchased from Wyckoff's. Her shoes, gloves, and bag are bone, as is her flattering large ripple-brim cloche of felt. Coral is the vivid color accent, carried out by Pat in Revlon nail polish, lipstick, and jewelry.

Runner-up in the local contest, Mrs. Wally Butz had fashioned a smart blue linen suit, the jacket of which was lined with a floral print handkerchief cotton. The blue of the print was carried through in a delicious shaded-blue floral poke hat and a rose at the high neckline. Her gloves were white, her shoes and bag black. Both girls deserve a great deal of credit, I think, and their excellent taste and smart ensembles should serve as an incentive to others with the urge to learn how to sew. Fabrics these days are glorious . . . the most detailed, high-styled patterns simplified much as possible . . . and the savings on smart "home styled" apparel tremendous.

I do not know where Mrs. Butz purchased her fabric or accessories . . . but I do know that her ensemble was also cut over a Vogue pattern. And Vogue is a big name in our pattern department.

I guess that tells the story . . . except to say, once again, CONGRATULATIONS, girls . . . you're just as smart as you appeared in your Record photograph.

PRIZE STUDENT Nurse is Nellie Ruelhman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ruelhman of Henryville who was awarded the St. Luke's Ladies Aid Society Capping Award at St. Luke's Hospital for "Interest, initiative and comprehension of the study of anatomy and physiology." Nellie was capped by her sister, Ann, a senior at St. Luke's.

Dear Abby

Act One, Scene One

Dear Abby: I am a senior in high school and so is Clyde. We've been going steady for five months. Clyde tried out for the senior class play and got the lead. His leading lady is a very s t a c k e d girl. He is supposed to kiss her in the last act. I realize he has to, but my friends tell me that Clyde has been going over to this girl's house every night and they practice the last act.

Should I break up with him if he doesn't quit seeing this girl? The play isn't until June. CLYDE'S STEADY

Dear Steady: Tell Clyde you think maybe you'd like to break off because of the rumors you've heard. If the rumors are false and he is still all yours, he'll have an excellent opportunity to say so. But if you lose Clyde, you'll have salvaged your pride.

Dear Abby: I have a sister-in-law who is five feet ten and very stunning. She is married to my brother, who is six feet three. Do you know she makes him wear elevated shoes so he will look even taller than he is? I think she is nutty, but don't you think he is nuttier?

KEEPING QUIET

Dear Keeping: I'm five feet nothing so I couldn't top either one of them.

Dear Abby: A few weeks ago my husband stopped in at a hotel bar and picked up some woman who had her bags at the bus station in a locker. She talked him into getting her bags. Then she gave him a big song and dance about how she was a nurse, married to a doctor, but she was on a spree to teach him a lesson for stepping out on her. Like a dope my husband swallowed her story. Then she talked him into checking her into a hotel room. Somehow or other she got into his wallet and all he knows is that it was empty when he got home. He had over $200 in it. Is there any way he can catch up with her? He doesn't even know her last name.

HIS WIFE

Dear Wife: Since your husband is so easily "talked into" things — why don't you talk him into going to the police station? He might be able to identify her from pictures they have on file of women who have been looked for this sort of thing. Without the police, it would be pretty futile.

Confidential To "Side Dish": You will never get away with it. The sins we do two by two we pay for one by one.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dressen Says Braves Will Win NL Pennant

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Charlie (Chuck) Dressen may be brash, outspoken and perhaps egotistical but he is also a solid baseball man and one of the smartest managers in the game.

So when the little Milwaukee pilot said recently that the Dodgers wouldn't win the pennant again because the Braves would, he was not intending to belittle his old club. He was merely voicing his sincere belief.

Friday, he went even further. "I still think we're better than the Dodgers. In fact, Milwaukee was a better club than the Dodgers last year, too," he said. "The only thing the Dodgers had was a stronger defense. They won last year but they won't this year."

If Condition

"We have an 'if' condition at second base and maybe in left field. I'd like to see whether (Wes) Covington has recovered from his operation." (Covington is still unsigned).

Dressen plans to make few changes on the club that lost the 1959 flag to the Dodgers in a playoff. He is putting a stronger stress on fundamentals, such as perfecting the cutoff play and accentuating the steal and hit and run.

Other changes include shifting

Eddie Mathews, the club's top home run hitter, from second to third in the lineup, and mapping out a pitching rotation that would provide more work for the younger hurlers and more rest for veterans, Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette.

Pitching Plan

"My idea is to cut down on Spahn's and Burdette's losses and, at the same time, make it possible for them to win as many games as they did last year," he said. "It could be done and I'll show them how."

The team has good power, good pitching, fair speed and fair defense.

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs took a 5-2 baseball decision from the San Francisco Giants Friday.

The Cubs went on a three run spree off starter and loser Sam Jones in the fourth when Frank Thomas and catcher Cal Neenan sandwiched their first spring homer around a walk to outfielder Bobby Will. The Cubs added two in the seventh.

Lause KO's Greaves In Four Rounds

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Argentina's Eduardo Lause celebrated his return to the U.S. ring Friday night by stopping rugged Willie Greaves of Canada in 1:33 of the fourth round at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Ruby Goldstein halted the bout after Greaves was dropped once and was taking some hard wallop.

The 32-year-old South American middleweight champion, who had been away from the United States for four years, opened his bid for a title fight with his impressive victory. It was the first time Greaves had been stopped in 43 pro fights.

Stopped Early

A short, stunning left hook to the jaw stunned Greaves early in the fourth round. As his legs wobbled, Lause charged in and dropped the husky blond with a right and left to the jaw.

Willie got up at eight but his eyes were glazed and his legs rubbery.

The swarthy Argentine belted Greaves with both hands in a fast barrage and the Canadian champion from Edmonton almost fell again. Lause then let loose with both barrels again and Greaves' legs almost gave in on him. Just as Lause was about to fire again, Goldstein stepped in and halted the fight.

Lause, an 8-5 favorite, weighed 160½ to 160 for Greaves.

Buckeyes Defeat NY 76-54

By JACK STEVENSON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes, paced by All-American Jerry Lucas and unsung Larry Siegfried, won their way into the finals of the NCAA basketball championships Friday night with a convincing 76-54 triumph over New York University.

The Big Ten champions play the winner of the California-Cincinnati semifinal in the title game Saturday night.

Big Crowd

A crowd of 14,500 jammed the Cow Palace and watched the Ohio State fast-break offense grab an 8-0 lead in the first 2½ minutes. Only once were the Buckeyes threatened — late in the first half when the margin was cut to two points.

But the 6-8 sophomore Lucas paced Ohio State in a first-half spurt to a 37-23 halftime advantage. With 6½ minutes in the game left, the Violets of NYU were 19 points behind.

Lucas Gets 19

Lucas scored 19 points. His average is 27. Siegfried, the playmaker of the club, also had 19. New York's Tom Sanders, a 6-6 jumping jack, kept Lucas checked early in the game but the big sophomore was not to be denied.

Leading scorer for the losers was 5-8 Russ Cunningham, who hit 14.

Ohio State proved its strength when it brought Dick Furry off the bench in the second half and he promptly scored 10 points. The victory was the Buckeyes' 24th against three losses and NYU's fourth defeat in 26 games.

Williams Hospitalized

Williams is in Temple University Hospital, Philadelphia, for surgery of a ruptured disc in his back.

Carazo, who led the league in scoring, was named on the first team by six of the eight loop coaches, who did the voting. Saylor and Jones drew five first place and two second place votes, while Williams and Harakal had five firsts and a second team vote.

Gene Martz and John Yanek of Catasauqua; Fred Rummel, Whitehall, Larry Mayer, Palmerton and Andy Semmel, Lehigh, were named to the second team.

Coaches taking part in the voting were Bob Wert, Stroud Union, Ken Moyer, Emmaus; Mike Marcellino, Palmerton; Howard Dotter, Northampton; Lloyd Williams, Slatington; Bob Steckel, Whitehall; Bob Mushrush, Catasauqua and Bill Smith, who recently resigned from Lehigh. Bradley Meets Providence In NIT Finals At Garden

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Bradley Braves and Chet Walker, quickly recovering from their drugged-drunk scare of Thursday night, will meet the unseeded but enthusiastic Providence Friars

Saturday afternoon in the final game of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Prior to the televised final (NBC-TV, 4 EST), their semifinal victims, St. Bonaventure and Utah State, will decide third place in the tournament.

Walker, Bradley's 6-foot-6 sophomore center, became ill after drinking a glass of orange juice mysteriously delivered to his hotel room before Friday night's 82-71 semifinal victory over St. Bonaventure. He said it tasted queer.

Another Exam

Doctors examined him before the game and said he was tense, weak but able to play. Coach Chuck Osborn called for another examination Friday and a doctor found symptoms of nervous tension but no indication of poisoning. Walker was given pills to quiet his nerves and was told to stay in bed and to watch his diet.

Another glass of juice, untouched by Walker's roommate Al Sanders, was sent to a police laboratory for analysis. No trace of drugs or poison was found.

Bradley is top seeded in the tournament and likely will be a strong favorite. Providence upset third-seeded St. Louis 64-53 and second-seeded Utah State 68-62 enroute to the final.

BROTHER ACT — Tom Stith (right), All-American collegiate cager, chalks up a play for his brother and teammate, Sam, at Madison Square Garden, New York City, where their St. Bonaventure team meets Utah State today for third-place in the National Invitational Tournament. Both Stith's have an excellent chance of being selected on the All-Tournament team.

Penn State Only Eastern Team To Win Mat Crown

PENN STATE is the only Eastern team to win the National Collegiate Wrestling Championship, which opens a three-day stand at the University of Maryland Thursday.

It will be only the second time in the 29-year history of the event that it has been staged in the South.

Dick Baker, of Allentown, has been entered in the 115-pound bracket. Baker, a Maryland sophomore, won the Atlantic Coast Conference lightweight title this year.

The National team title has been won by Oklahoma State 21 times. Excluding Indiana's win in 1932 and the Sittany Lion's triumph in 1953, the title has remained in either the state of Oklahoma or Iowa.

Pitt, Penn State, and Lehigh have entered full teams. Pitt and Penn State tied for the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship this year with 66 points, Lehigh was third with 43.

Yakencheck Faces Emmaus Heavyweight Tonight

Eddie Yakencheck, the Mt. Bethel amateur heavyweight, will face Joe Mushitz of Emmaus tonight at Carbondale's Catholic Youth Center. The 10-bout card is promoted by Scranton's Friends of Boxing. The first three-rounder begins at 8:30.

Chick Craig, coach of the Easton-Madisons, says he will try to get Gene Connolly, the Philadelphia Phillies pitcher and Boston Celtics star, to play for Easton next year.

Connolly has indicated that he may not play in the National Basketball Assn. next season.

Gap Books Regatta June 4 and 5

The Third Annual Delaware Water Gap outdoor motor boat Regatta will be held June 4 and 5 off Kittatinny Beach Landing on the Delaware River.

Six teams make up the Monroe County Softball League, which begins play on April 25.

Tobyhanna Signal Depot, Lackawanna Hotel, Three Ring Pete's, Olympic-Keiper, Teddy's Tavern and Nebel's Market comprise the mush-bull circuit. Theodore Stevens is the loop's umpire-in-chief.

The league will hold its next meeting on March 31.

The Eastern collegiate basketball team to beat next is Villanova. The Wildcats hold title to Tom Hoover, six-foot, nine-inch former high school All-American from the District of Columbia. Hoover led the freshman club to one of its best seasons this year.

Golf Gloves Standard For Most Pros

Nine of 10 touring pro golfers wear a golf glove. There are a few different reasons for wearing the glove but the most common is that the glove gives the golfer a better grip of the club at the top of the back swing. It is hard to find a pro who wears a glove while putting, however.

If one of the circuit boys has a hot putter most of the other pros will use the same type of tool. One tournament trailer quipped last year "If Art Wall started knocking in putts with a limb from a dead tree, ninety-percent of the pros would be out looking for the tree where Wall got the limb."

The latest thing in golfing equipment is a motorized golf bag cart. The little buggies resemble the standard pull cart but a gasoline engine eliminates all the work but steering for the golfer.

Ruth League Estimates 120,000 Boys Will Play

THE BABE Ruth Baseball League is not a small operation.

In Pennsylvania, 6,000 boys, ages 13, 14 and 15 are expected to be playing in the Ruth League this Summer.

Nationally, 120,000 boys will be playing and there will be 90,000 games played and with an average attendance of 100 per game, more than nine million people will watch the games it is believed.

Big Money

Babe Ruth League, Inc., with headquarters in Trenton, N.J., estimates that two and a half million dollars will be spent in 1960 by the local leagues, with a large portion of the money being contributed by the more than 8,000 sponsors.

The 1960 Babe Ruth League World Series will be played in St. Paul, Minn. in the 11,000-seat Midway Municipal Stadium.

Last year West Hazleton represented Pennsylvania in the World Series at Stockton, Calif.

May 1 Deadline

To be eligible to play in the series, leagues must apply for charters by May 1.

While the object of the Ruth League program is to provide baseball competition for the 13-14-15 year-old group, the league is a proud of the fact that no boy, who has played three years of Babe Ruth League baseball has been involved in the courts for a juvenile crime.

Low-Rated Bosox Could Be Surprise

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one in a series on the major league teams.)

By Walter L. Johns
Central Press Sports Editor
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Three strikes were tossed against Bill Jurgens as the ex-National league shortstop took over for his first full season as manager of the Boston Red Sox. However, Bill, who always had a keen batting eye, didn't go down. He's still on his feet and came out smiling.

First, Jackie Jensen, the muscle man in center field, decided to call it quits.

Then Ted Williams, the old fishing expert, arrived to announce that he had too much pain and didn't know if he would play.

Two Hurt

Then two of Bill's charges, outfielder Jackie Keough and ex-Cub pitcher Dave Hillman, were banged up in a late-hour auto accident near Mesa, Ariz., and Hillman's shoulder is in bad shape.

Jurgens, however, still optimistic, goes ahead with the task of trying to make the gold-plated Red Sox a solid competitor.

"This is a club of young players," the gray-haired Jurgens says in between his duties of two practice sessions at Scottsdale Stadium here.

"It's a guessing game at the moment," Bill continues. "We have what we think is good young talent but we don't know if they're going to be ready this year, or next. The guesses we make may backfire in that we might keep the wrong ones."

Pitching Good

"I think our pitching is going to be all right. Jerry Casale should be better and we've got several others who look real good right now. We're going to give Ron Jackson a shot at first but we also have Vic Wertz available and Wertz is in excellent condition."

The outfield problem created by Jensen's retirement and Williams' still questionable status may be of special concern although Jurgens doesn't indicate it as he says: "Gene Stephens will be in center and we have Bobby Thomson and Williams in left. Gary Geiger probably will be in right field when he gets out of the service (April)."

One of the big experiments will be at first, where Ron Jackson, the giant ex-White Soxer, is being given the big shot at it. If he doesn't make it, Jurgens could always use Pete Runnels, but Pete is needed around the keystone sack.

Jerry (Pumpsie) Green is a better-fielding second sacker than Runnels but Runnels hits better. A possible help here or at third is a rookie, Marlan Coughtry, who did well at Allentown last year.

Bright Prospect

Another bright prospect for the future is the $100,000 kid, Carl Yastrzemski, Jr., signed right out of the freshman class at Notre Dame and labeled by all today a "major league hitter already" but a question mark as to whether he can field like a major leaguer.

Don Buddin and the All-Star third sacker, Frank

Malzone, complete the infield. Catching is in the hands of Sammy White, who still is working to round into shape. Others are Ed Sadowski, from Minneapolis, and Haywood Sullivan, once rated very highly.

The Red Sox got Bobby Thomson from the Cubs and he will alternate with Williams in left. Two rookies are being "guessed on" among the outfielders. They are Lucian Clinton, from Minneapolis, and Gerald Mallett, who hit .278 at Allentown.

Casale Heads Hurlers

The Red Sox pitching is headed by Jerry Casale, who won 13 games last year; Tom Brewer, Frank Sullivan and Tom Sturdvant, with Ike Delock and Mike Fornieles available. Sturdvant has looked great in camp, arrived early and is ready to go. He spent last year with the Yanks and A's.

Dave Hillman, who was 8-11 with the Cubs, now is a question mark after his auto accident injury. Young pitchers in camp include Tom Borland, 14-8 with Minneapolis; Nelson Chittum, 11-5 with Minneapolis (who is expected to do relief duty); and Bob Wilson, big right-hander who won 10 for Minneapolis. Also on deck is Bill Monbouquette, who was 7-7 with Boston last year.

CAPSULE COMMENT
On Boston Red Sox
Finish last year—Fifth.
Pitching — Could be good; Dave Hillman questionable now.
Infield — If Ron Jackson can hit infield will be helped by power.
Outfield — Jackie Jensen gone, Ted Williams in doubt. Who will drive in the runs?
Overall — Not rated first division, but may surprise.

LV Chapter Of Engineers Entertained

A HIGHLY entertaining evening greeted the members of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers, their wives and guests of members of the association at their annual Ladies Night at the Pavilion in Phillipsburg, N.J., last night.

Pat Kauffman of Allentown, accompanied by Vivian Rosenberg, rendered an original musical monologue, "The Battle of the Sexes." The skit humorously portrayed the conflict of male versus female from childhood to marriage, resolving itself with husbands and wives thinking "Though with them it's bad, without them it's worse. Sometimes they're a joy, sometimes a curse!"

State Farm Mutual Sets Dollar Mark

STATE FARM Mutual ended 1955 with an 11.9 percent share of the nation's private passenger car insurance market and with earned premiums for the year in excess of $400 million, the first time a single casualty insurance company has passed that dollar level.

Local agent for State Farm is Lloyd E. Manter. Of the company's $432,061,041 of earned premiums, auto business accounted for $419,740,013. Other year-end figures announced today by Adlai H. Rust, chairman of the Board of the three State Farm companies, show assets of $567,899,140, a 17 percent gain for the period. Policyholders' surplus increased 17.8 percent to $156,119,624.

New High

Claim costs mounted to a new high for the tenth straight year, Rust reported. Claims incurred totaled $257,084,976, a 15.1 percent increase, and claims and underwriting expenses incurred climbed 7.9 percent to $159,059,724. The company settled 2-118,360 claims during the year. Investment gain improved to $16,164,447 over 1954's $13,444,795. The underwriting gain of $15,916,341 compares with $8,814,696 for the previous year. Federal income taxes totaled $4,495,777.

There were an estimated 46-767,000 private passenger cars in operation in the U.S. at year-end (cars scrapped, for hire, in government and business fleets and on dealer lots not included). Of this number, 3,547,114 were protected by State Farm policies. The company's total policy count, including other vehicles, general liability and Canadian policies, was 5,923,788.

More Than Double

State Farm's 7.15 percent gain in auto policies in force was more than double the three percent growth rate of the nation's auto population in 1955 (U. S. Department of Commerce estimate). State Farm has been the nation's largest auto insurer for the past 18 of its 38 years in business.

The company's wholly-owned affiliates, State Farm Fire and Casualty and State Farm Life, also showed solid gains for the year.

State Farm Fire and Casualty Company paced the State Farm group growthwise with a 31.9 percent increase in gross direct premiums written—$33,858,356 as against $25,671,512 for 1954. After reinsurance, net earned premium amounted to $17,280,032, a 29.5 percent improvement over 1954. Underwriting profit totaled $782,264 and net investment gain was $979,887. Assets were $41,391,087 and policyholders' surplus $12,502,073 at the year's close.

State Farm Life Insurance Company was near the $1½ billion mark at year-end, reporting a 12 percent gain over 1954 to $1,477,564,666 of ordinary life insurance in force. The company passed the $1½ billion figure in January, for more than a $1 billion gain of ordinary life in force since 1952. Life insurance sales for the year increased 10.9 percent to $306,591,924. Assets at year-end were $186,957,160, a 13.8 percent increase. Surplus to protect policyholders was up 13.2 percent to $23,029,195.

Home Office of the three State Farm companies is in Bloomington, Illinois.

PMF Seeks Explanation Of Program

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Motor Federation (PMF) complained that the state is not keeping motorists informed on Gov. Lawrence's new highway safety program.

In a letter to highway safety Commissioner O. D. Shipley, the secretary-treasurer of the federation, C. E. Pugh, said motorists want to know:

(1) What the new program will do to him;

(2) What it will do for him, and

(3) What he should do to protect himself against inadvertent violation of the new plan's drastic provisions.

The program, featuring physical examinations of all drivers and a revised system of suspensions for traffic violations, was announced Feb. 2 by Lawrence.

The new suspension system became effective March 1. The details of the physical examinations are still being worked out by the administration.

"The question of physical examinations," Pugh wrote, "has aroused a storm of questions and criticism, most of which can be traced to lack of accurate and detailed information on how this phase of the program will work."

Eric Petitions ICC For Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Erie Railroad petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday for an increase in the railroad's intrastate fares to match interstate levels.

Federal intervention was sought because the New Jersey Public Service Commission last month refused to permit advances in intrastate fares.

Last September the ICC authorized the Erie to raise interstate fares.

Erie said it is losing about two million dollars a year on its passenger service.

Similar petitions have been filed with the ICC by the Lackawanna Railroad and Erie's affiliate, the New York and New Jersey Railroad.
